MISSISSIPPI NEAR FLOOD STAGE AT ST. LOUIS

INCESSANT RAINS OF LAST 2 DAYS CAUSE

BRINGS RIVER TO WITHIN FOOT
OF 30 FOOT FLOOD
STAGE

PATROLS OUT ON ALL LEVEES ON MISSISSIPPI AND MISSOURI

St. Louis, Mo., April 2.—(UP)—Incessant rains of the last two days brought the Mississippi river to within a foot of the 30-foot flood stage here today with the water steadily rising.

Flood pumps in East St. Louis were working full force after several of the pumps were crippled late yesterday allowing the water to flood many basements in that city.

Little danger from flood waters is anticipated in East St. Louis, however, since the levees have been reconstructed to withstand flood water at a 40 foot stage.

Despite predictions of the weather bureau for fair weather, rain was falling in St. Louis this morning and thermometers had dropped to about 49 degrees at 6 A. M.

Quincy, Ill., April 2.—With rivers in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri out of their banks, orders have been sent out to patrol all levees on the Mississippi and Missouri rivers.

The Mississippi river reached flood stage here this morning and the Illinois river was rising so rapidly at Beardstown that merchants have cancelled orders for immediate delivery of merchandise.

Flood conditions in the Illinois river were said to be particularly bad from Peoria to Pearl and fears were entertained that a repetition of flood conditions of last fall might prevail.

Kansas City, Mo., April 2.—Calm and sunshine today followed a week of high wind and water in the southwest.

After storms and floods claimed seven more lives to add to the March toll, scattered communities in Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri reported water receding and no existing danger to life and property.

Several Missouri and Kansas towns were flooded Thursday and Friday by swollen rivers and lakes, and passenger trains were delayed from six to eight hours. Landslides from water-weakened bluffs on the Rock Island railroad near Valencia, Kans., buried the tracks and delayed trains.

Farmers in Arkansas felt no further fear today that their homes and belongings would be washed away. Re-enforced river levees on the Mississippi were holding and the water level is expected to drop sharply today.

Durham, N. C., April 2.—A freak wind and rain storm in this section of North Carolina and the Piedmont section of South Carolina today had left houses without roofs here and toppled over at least 12 garages.

Damage to electric power systems and residences may reach $50,000 in Durham alone.

Anderson, N. C., April 2.—A hail-storm yesterday struck Anderson, shattering probably 4,000 windows in mill structures. Reports of like damage throughout the section reached here today.

HAD 5 DAYS MIMIC NAVAL FIGHT IN CARIBBEAN

With the United States Fleet in the Caribbean, April 2.—(UP)—The fleet returned to Guantanamo today after a five-day mimic naval engagement in the Caribbean. Admiral Hughes, commander, congratulated both sides on "the interesting and persistent conduct of the exercises."

Both sides held on tenaciously for the five days in one of the longest and most complex strategical problems in naval history. Decision as to victory will be announced later.

As soon as the fleet arrived at Guantanamo liberty parties put ashore joyously and the bluejackets received their long awaited mail from home.

The naval "battle" ended yesterday morning at 8 o'clock. The units of the fleet joined the flagship Seattle 30 miles north of Jamaica at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and proceeded in fleet formation to Guantanamo, arriving today.

AIMEE McPHERSON HOME FROM BARN STORMING TOUR

Los Angeles, April 2.—(UP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, noted woman evangelist, was back home today, fresh from a barnstorming tour of soul-saving.

She was not scheduled to arrive here until this afternoon. But true to her taste for the dramatic, the titian-haired preacher of the four-square gospel swept unexpectedly onto the stage at her Angelus temple last night.

A wild cheer went up from thousands of her assembled followers who spent weeks planning for her homecoming. For fully 15 minutes the temple was in tumult as excited and enthusiastic McPhersonites hugged and kissed each other, waved handkerchiefs, shouted and stamped their feet.

TEXAS RANGERS ARE TO QUELL THE LAWLESS ELEMENT

TEN GO TO BORGER ON ORDERS OF GOVERNOR DAN
MOODY

CITIZENS OF BORGER INVOKE
MARTIAL LAW IN COM-MUNITY

Borger, Texas, April 2.—(UP)—Bandits and gunmen who have disrupted Borger for months "laid low" today as ten Texas Rangers sped their way here from Austin on orders of Gov. Dan Moody.

A request by Borger citizens for martial law to drive out the lawless element was answered by the dispatch of the Ranger force, traditionally famous officers.

The unchecked wave of crime and outlawry in recent weeks was eliminated yesterday when Deputy Sheriffs Pat Kenyon and A. L. Terry were murdered on the roadside near here, apparently outshot in a revolver battle with bandits.

Two weeks ago Patrolman Coke Buchanan, picturesque Texas peace officer, was shot to death when he challenged a gang of men in the act of robbing a wholesale grocery house.

Lawlessness followed the oil boom into Borger. A number of persons have been slain in vice dens and dance halls.

District Attorney Curtis Douglas announced today that he would file murder charges against Ed Baillie, Hugh Walker and Whitney Walker, in connection with slaying of Policeman Buchanan.

Several automobile loads of officers guarded the Stinnett jail where the three suspects are held following reports that a mob was to surround it.

Two Hustons Indicted for Misapplications of Land Bank Funds

Chicago, April 2.—(UP)—John E. Huston and Guy Huston, indicted in St. Paul for misappropriation of $500,000 of the funds of the Southern Minnesota Joint Stock Land bank, today were ordered held for removal to Mankato, Minn., by a United States commissioner.

The two brothers have been opposing removal to the Minnesota district.

$1,384,000 DAMAGES AWARDED AGAINST CHEWING GUM CO.

Chicago, April 2.—(UP)—The federal circuit court of appeals today upheld a lower court decision which awarded the L. P. Larson Co. damages of $1,384,000 against the William Wrigley Chewing Gum Manufacturing company.

The Larson company alleged in its suit that the trade name "Spearmint Chewing Gum" originally was its property and the Wrigley company infringed on a patent when it adopted the name.

The higher court in upholding the decision excepted a few minor points in the lower court's opinion and it is expected that when the amounts listed from these items is subtracted from the $1,384,000 that the total damages will be approximately $1,000,000.

The case has been pending for several years.

TALES OF TERROR ARE RECOUNTED BY REFUGEES

AMERICANS CAUGHT IN BATTLE
ZONES OF THE CHINESE
CIVIL WAR

STEAMER DOCKS WITH 335 PAS-SENGERS AT SAN FRAN-CISCO

San Francisco, April 2.—(UP)—Tales of the terror experienced by Americans caught in the battle zones of the Chinese civil war were being recounted here today by refugees who have returned aboard the U. S. Siberia Maru.

After weathering a heavy gale, which for a time threatened to delay her arrival, the steamer docked last night with 335 passengers, many of them from the Chinese war zones.

Scores of eye-witness descriptions of bloody fighting and plundering by the Cantonese soldiers on their victorious march to Shanghai were told by the refugees.

One of the most interesting accounts was given by the Rev. R. E. Woods, an Episcopal clergyman of Batavia, N. Y., in an interview with the United Press.

The Rev. Woods was in Wuchang during a 40-day siege of that city of 200,000. He told of airplane raids during which bullets raked American churches and colleges; of bombs which burst about the homes of foreigners; of soldiers dying outside the city walls after lying for days with gaping wounds; and of diminishing food supplies which threatened the little foreign colony with starvation.

"Ideas that a Chinese war is only politics are wrong," said the missionary. "During the siege of Wuchang there was gunfire day and night. At one time the Cantonese tried to tunnel under the wall of the city and were repulsed with a slaughter that was terrifying."

"The siege began the first of September and lasted until October 10th. During that time fighting was so savage and bitter that opposing commanders would not even grant an armistice so that the dead and dying outside the walls could be removed."

"There were about 10,000 soldiers on each side. The Cantonese used airplanes which flew low over the city bringing destruction of everything within range of their bombs and bullets. St. Hilda's college outside the walls was demolished by the gunfire but the Americans who had been in charge there had fled inside the walls at the first sign of warfare and were safe."

The foreign population of Wuchang included about 40 missionaries. None was injured during the bombardment but many narrow escapes were reported.

"Our women were helping in the hospital caring for the hundreds of non-combatants who were wounded by shell fire on the streets," the elderly missionary continued. "Bombs were dropped regularly near the hospital. One section of Boone college was demolished. The American church mission, the hospital and St. Michael's church, of which I was pastor, were damaged."

Hundreds of Chinese died of starvation during the siege, Woods said. "The suffering was pitiful," the missionary said. "Every time the Cantonese stormed the wall and were forced to withdraw they would leave hundreds of wounded men outside the gates. These men were not removed; they stayed there until death brought a merciful end."

Foreigners were permitted to depart without molestation after Munchang finally fell to the Cantonese.

U. S. STEEL'S
COMMON STOCK
CONTINUES ADVANCE

New York, April 2.—(UP)—United States Steel corporation's common stock continued its rapid advance in early dealings on the stock market today. The initial sale was made at 16 1/2%, up 3/4 from the previous close and a new high record for all time. Later the stock moved up to 17 1/2 in active turnover.

HUGE NET FULL OF FISH TAKEN FROM LAKE TO RIVER

Winona, Minn., April 2.—(UP)—A huge net full of fish were taken from Lake Winona today and placed in the Mississippi river.

The Winona park board supervised the haul of the 3,000 foot net in Lake Winona which has been used as a breeding pond for fish.

Today's stocking operations were the first fruits of operation in the rehabilitation program.

CANTONESE PROTEST THE BOMBARDMENT

STATEMENT ISSUED BY CHEN, NATIONALIST FOREIGN MINISTER

CHINESE SUFFERED 100 CASUAL-
TIES FOR EVERY FOREIGNER
KILLED, HE CLAIMS

By H. FRANCIS MISSELWITZ
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Shanghai, April 2.—The Cantonese government "strongly" protests bombardment of Nanking by British and American gunboats, said a statement issued at that city today by Eugene Chen, foreign minister of that nationalist government, and relayed to Shanghai by Admiral Hough, commanding the United States Yangtze patrol.

The Chinese suffered 100 casualties for every foreigner killed or wounded in the Nanking riots, Chen said. He denounced the attack on the foreign consulates and expressed regret over foreign casualties.

Fear for safety of foreigners increased as a result of reports that an order ousting the moderate Chiang Kai-Shek as generalissimo of the southern armies had been drafted at Hankow. The order, it was understood, would not take effect for several days. The extremist wing of the party, which would be left in complete control if Chiang were forced out, is more strongly anti-foreign than the centrist faction.

Peking, April 2.—American and British residents of Peking were alarmed today, although the city was entirely peaceful. Large numbers were preparing to evacuate as soon as possible.

The interior was reported to be growing more dangerous. Americans along the Tibetan border were urged to evacuate and American and British merchants at Kalgan, northwest of Peking, were preparing to leave.

Anti-American demonstrations at Chungking were reported to be increasing. At Nanking, police were guarding the American consulate, but the British consulate was being used as barracks for nationalist troops.

The American legation here denied it urged American institutions in Peking to evacuate their personnel but it was understood the Rockefeller Institute and other organizations were granting immediate vacations and home leave wherever possible.

Washington, April 2.—Ordering of 1,500 more marines to concentrate at San Diego, Calif., in readiness for Chinese service, is taken here today as indicating the administration's fear of further trouble and an expectation that the disturbed condition in China will last a long time.

The order for the new marine expeditionary force, the third, came only a few hours after Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the Asiatic fleet, had reported possibility of serious trouble soon in the upper Yangtze valley, whence nearly all Americans now have been evacuated.

Williams, it was learned today, asked for the concentration of other marines at San Diego when he requested 1,500 more marines for Shanghai several days ago. The 1,500 bound for Shanghai are now proceeding across country and will sail on the transport Henderson early next week. The voyage will take 22 days.

DEFINITE DECISION TO BE SENT

SHORTLY

Paris, April 2.—(UP)—France will make a stop gap reply to President Coolidge's second invitation to participate in limitation of naval armaments discussion at Geneva, it was semi-officially made known here today.

The cabinet, the United Press was informed, decided to reply that owing to the uncertainty of the disarmament situation as developed at Geneva, where the League's preparatory disarmament commission is in session, France is not yet able to decide whether an observer could be sent to the conference which is sponsored by Mr. Coolidge.

France, the United States would be informed, will communicate a definite decision as soon as possible.

COUNTESS ADMITS SHOOTING SELF AND WEALTHY ENGLISHMAN

Paris, April 2.—(UP)—Police today obtained from the Countess De Janze, formerly Alice Silverthorne of Buffalo, N. Y., and Chicago, a signed statement in which she admitted shooting herself and Raymond De Trafford, a wealthy Englishman, one week ago today in a railway carriage at the Gare du Nord. It was the first formal statement the countess had made.

"I don't know why I did it," said the statement signed by the countess. "I must have been crazy. He was leaving me but was to rejoin me later. I only wanted to wound him and I really don't know why. I wanted to kill myself, for I have always had ideas of suicide. From time to time and without reason I have wanted to die."

The statement added that the countess had purchased the revolver while with De Trafford at the arms store at which they had always bought their hunting weapons. Both were big game enthusiasts. The countess believed that she would not be held for the shooting and planned when she should recover to go to the Rivera to rest. But Judge Bacquard, the examining magistrate, said he intended to question her Monday and to make a charge of voluntary homicide. The countess, Bacquard intimated, would be transferred from the hospital to St. Lazare prison.

COL. LYMAN B. GOFF DIES AT HIS HOME IN PAWTUCKET, R. I.

Pawtucket, R. I., April 2.—(UP)—Col. Lyman B. Goff, multimillionaire textile magnate and philanthropist, died at his home here today in his 86th year.

boat Asheville has been ordered from Shanghai to Tientsin, 70 miles south-east of Peking, upon order of Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the Asiatic fleet, he advised the navy department today.

Williams acted in response to a request from American Minister MacMurray at Peking.

Shanghai, April 2.—An unconfirmed report received here today said 150 Chinese had been injured and some of them killed at Chungking during a riot between opposing factions of the nationalist army.

An anti-foreign demonstration was in progress at Chungking, the rumor said, and 300 nationalists who did not approve of the anti-foreign sentiments broke up the demonstration.

BANDITS STEAL $1,500 IN JEWELS AND FAMILY CAR

St. Paul, April 2.—(UP)—Stepping out from behind a private garage where they had waited for the family of Edward J. Murphy to come home, two bandits leaped on the running board of the Murphy car, robbed the occupants of $1,500 in jewels and then stole the automobile.

Murphy had just returned from the theatre with his wife and two grandchildren when the bandits appeared on the running board with drawn guns. A diamond ring valued at $1,500 on the hand of Murphy, and some small change in his wife's purse were taken by the robbers.

The family was then ordered out of the car which was driven away by the gunmen.

CHECK REIN IS PLACED ON ROY A. HAYNES

NEW ACTING COMMISSIONER OF
PROHIBITION HANDI-
CAPPED

PREVENTED FROM HAVING FULL
CONTROL OF FEDERAL
DRY FORCES

Washington, April 2.—(UP)—A check-rein was placed today on Roy A. Haynes, new acting commissioner of prohibition, to prevent him having full control of the federal dry forces.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Mills signed an order delegating to Haynes full authority to decide in all prohibition matters—but first he must obtain the approval of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury L. C. Andrews.

Haynes, by this order, is directly under Andrews' supervision. All major policies, appointments and administrative matters will be decided by the assistant secretary. Then the commissioner will be allowed to put the orders into effect.

Andrews, however, claimed this was in line with the treasury's policy and not meant to handicap Haynes. He stated "the prohibition bureau would be one big family, all working together."

Decisions issued by Haynes, after approval by Andrews, will be absolutely final. Revision can only be made by the courts unless revoked by Haynes under Andrews' authority, the order stated.

Andrews said it had been definitely decided there would be no change in the administration's dry enforcement policy. The major objective will continue to be cutting off sources of bootleg supplies and suppressing commercialized traffic in liquor.

"There is now perfect harmony in the prohibition bureau," Andrews said. "We expect to increase the efficiency of the organization and make real progress."

Andrews added he expected to hold weekly conference with Haynes, Major H. H. White, who will be assistant dry commissioner, and James E. Jones, deputy commissioner.

KING FERDINAND'S CONDITION SHOWS MARKED IMPROVEMENT

Bucharest, Roumania, April 2.—(UP)—King Ferdinand's condition was "markedly improved" today, according to an official bulletin.

The king's condition was reported critical yesterday as a result of an attack of grippe which complicated an illness of several months.

Despite the favorable official bulletin, anxiety over the king continued. In some quarters it was declared his condition was hopeless.

Troops filled the streets of the city today as the government guarded against a possible revolt if the king dies.

Brussels, April 2.—(UP)—Dr. Suys, chief of the radium service of Solvay Institute, has been called to Roumania to treat King Ferdinand, it was learned here today.

SOFT COAL MINERS RESENT A WAGE CUT

EVEN THOUGH LATTER MAY BE ONLY FOR A SHORT
TERM

CONCILIATORY CONFERENCES
MAY BE ARRANGED
FOR

By GERALD P. OVERTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Indianapolis, Ind., April 2.—No break was apparent today in the general shutdown that has gripped the unionized bituminous coal mines of the central competitive district for the past 36 hours.

The miners have indicated—through a speech by John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers—that they will not agree to the demands of the operators for lower wages, even though the lower wages shall be only for a term while conciliatory conferences are going on.

Lewis in a speech to several hundred miners at Taylorville, Ill., said: "We are willing to meet the operators at any time to negotiate any question. But they cannot force us to concede a wage reduction as the price of a conference for a new scale."

Approximately 170,000 miners throughout the district, which envelops the western Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio and Illinois fields, are not working as result of the general shutdown at midnight Thursday. The miners are demanding retention of the Jacksonville wage agreement, which provides pay of $7.50 per day, while the operators say wage reductions are necessary to meet non-union competition.

In some few isolated districts the operators and miners have entered separate wage agreements, but the bulk of the unionized mines are closed. Almost all of the major mines of the territory have been shut down until a settlement is reached.

At Pittsburgh it was announced the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company, one of the largest companies in that district, had announced that henceforth the seven mines of the company would be operated on a non-union basis. The seven mines employ about 3,100 men.

The matter was called to the attention of President Coolidge and Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of Labor Davis. It was learned here. They all agreed to refrain from taking action at this time the announcement said.

Despite the general shutdown prevalent in the industry, it was announced that coal operators in Chicago had installed their customary April first price cuts. The cuts averaged about fifty cents a ton, it was announced.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 2.—Leaders of the United Mine Workers and operators alike were keeping close watch today on developments in the bituminous fields of the Pittsburgh district.

The first attempt to open mines on a non-union basis following the walkout of 170,000 organized coal miners will be made in that district. The success or failure of the Pittsburgh company's attempt will govern the future action of a number of other large coal companies in the central competitive field, it is believed.

The full scope of the shutdown was becoming apparent today and reports here indicated that more than 170,000 men were out.

With miners observing a holiday yesterday, it was impossible to estimate the effectiveness of the walkout.

A number of independent operators are keeping their mines open in the central competitive fields, but the big producers have all suspended. In some quarters it was believed the union, by reaching agreements with a number of outlying districts would quickly force a settlement in the central competitive fields.

Many indications, however, pointed to a long conflict and scores of miners were reported preparing to move to industrial centers in search of work.

Shanghai, April 2.—The Cantonese government "strongly" protests bombardment of Nanking by British and American gunboats, said a statement issued at that city today by Eugene Chen, foreign minister of that nationalist government, and relayed to Shanghai by Admiral Hough, commanding the United States Yangtze patrol.

The Chinese suffered 100 casualties for every foreigner killed or wounded in the Nanking riots, Chen said. He denounced the attack on the foreign consulates and expressed regret over foreign casualties.

The interior was reported to be growing more dangerous. Americans along the Tibetan border were urged to evacuate and American and British merchants at Kalgan, northwest of Peking, were preparing to leave.

Anti-American demonstrations at Chungking were reported to be increasing. At Nanking, police were guarding the American consulate, but the British consulate was being used as barracks for nationalist troops.

The American legation here denied it urged American institutions in Peking to evacuate their personnel, but it was understood the Rockefeller Institute and other organizations were granting immediate vacations and home leave wherever possible.

Washington, April 2.—Ordering of 1,500 more marines to concentrate at San Diego, Calif., in readiness for Chinese service, is taken here today as indicating the administration's fear of further trouble and an expectation that the disturbed condition in China will last a long time.

The order for the new marine expeditionary force, the third, came only a few hours after Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the Asiatic fleet, had reported possibility of serious trouble soon in the upper Yangtze valley, whence nearly all Americans now have been evacuated.

Williams, it was learned today, asked for the concentration of other marines at San Diego when he requested 1,500 more marines for Shanghai several days ago. The 1,500 bound for Shanghai are now proceeding across country and will sail on the transport Henderson early next week. The voyage will take 22 days.

Paris, April 2.—(UP)—France will make a stop gap reply to President Coolidge's second invitation to participate in limitation of naval armaments discussion at Geneva, it was semi-officially made known here today.

The cabinet, the United Press was informed, decided to reply that owing to the uncertainty of the disarmament situation as developed at Geneva, where the League's preparatory disarmament commission is in session, France is not yet able to decide whether an observer could be sent to the conference which is sponsored by Mr. Coolidge.

France, the United States would be informed, will communicate a definite decision as soon as possible.

COUNTRESS ADMITS SHOOTING SELF AND WEALTHY ENGLISHMAN

Paris, April 2.—(UP)—Police today obtained from the Countess De Janze, formerly Alice Silverthorne of Buffalo, N. Y., and Chicago, a signed statement in which she admitted shooting herself and Raymond De Trafford, a wealthy Englishman, one week ago today in a railway carriage at the Gare du Nord. It was the first formal statement the countess had made.

"I don't know why I did it," said the statement signed by the countess. "I must have been crazy. He was leaving me but was to rejoin me later. I only wanted to wound him and I really don't know why. I wanted to kill myself, for I have always had ideas of suicide. From time to time and without reason I have wanted to die."

The statement added that the countess had purchased the revolver while with De Trafford at the arms store at which they had always bought their hunting weapons. Both were big game enthusiasts. The countess believed that she would not be held for the shooting and planned when she should recover to go to the Rivera to rest. But Judge Baquard, the examining magistrate, said he intended to question her Monday and to make a charge of voluntary homicide. The countess, Baquard intimated, would be transferred from the hospital to St. Lazare prison.

COL. LYMAN B. GOFF DIES AT HIS HOME IN PAWTUCKET, R. I.

boat Ashville has been ordered from Shanghai to Tientsin, 70 miles southeast of Peking, upon order of Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the Asiatic fleet, he advised the navy department today.

Williams acted in response to a request from American Minister MacMurray at Peking.

Shanghai, April 2.—An unconfirmed report received here today said 150 Chinese had been injured and some of them killed at Chungking during a riot between opposing factions of the nationalist army.

Au anti-foreign demonstration was in progress at Chungking, the rumor said, and 300 nationalists who did not approve of the anti-foreign sentiments broke up the demonstration.

BANDITS STEAL $1,500 IN JEWELS AND FAMILY CAR

St. Paul, April 2.—(UP)—Stepping out from behind a private garage where they had waited for the family of Edward J. Murphy to come home, two bandits leaped on the running board of the Murphy car, robbed the occupants of $1,500 in jewels and then stole the automobile.

Murphy had just returned from the theatre with his wife and two grandchildren when the bandits appeared on the running board with drawn guns. A diamond ring valued at $1,500 on the hand of Murphy, and some small change in his wife's purse were taken by the robbers.

The family was then ordered out of the car which was driven away by the gunmen.

CHECK REIN IS PLACED ON ROY A. HAYNES

NEW ACTING COMMISSIONER OF
PROHIBITION HANDI-

CONTROL OF FEDERAL
DRY FORCES

Washington, April 2.—(UP)—A check-rein was placed today on Roy A. Haynes, new acting commissioner of prohibition, to prevent him having full control of the federal dry forces.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Mills signed an order delegating to Haynes full authority to decide in all prohibition matters—but first he must obtain the approval of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury L. C. Andrews.

Haynes, by this order, is directly under Andrews' supervision. All major policies, appointments and administrative matters will be decided by the assistant secretary. Then the commissioner will be allowed to put the orders into effect.

Andrews, however, claimed this was in line with the treasury's policy and not meant to handicap Haynes. He stated "the prohibition bureau would be one big family, all working together."

Decisions issued by Haynes, after approval by Andrews, will be absolutely final. Revision can only be made by the courts unless revoked by Haynes under Andrews' authority, the order stated.

Andrews said it had been definitely decided there would be no change in the administration's dry enforcement policy. The major objective will continue to be cutting off sources of bootleg supplies and suppressing commercialized traffic in liquor.

"There is now perfect harmony in the prohibition bureau," Andrews said. "We expect to increase the efficiency of the organization and make real progress."

Andrews added he expected to hold weekly conference with Haynes, Major H. H. White, who will be assistant dry commissioner, and James E. Jones, deputy commissioner.

KING FERDINAND'S CONDITION SHOWS MARKED IMPROVEMENT

Bucharest, Roumania, April 2.—(UP)—King Ferdinand's condition was "markedly improved" today, according to an official bulletin.

The king's condition was reported critical yesterday as a result of an attack of grippe which complicated an illness of several months.

Despite the favorable official bulletin, anxiety over the king continued. In some quarters it was declared his condition was hopeless.

Troops filled the streets of the city today as the government guarded against a possible revolt if the king dies.

Brussels, April 2.—(UP)—Dr. Suys, chief of the radium service of Solvay Institute, has been called to Roumania to treat King Ferdinand, it was learned here today.

SOFT COAL MINERS RESENT A WAGE CUT

EVEN THOUGH LATTER MAY BE
ONLY FOR A SHORT
TERM

CONCILIATORY CONFERENCES
MAY BE ARRANGED
FOR

By GERALD P. OVERTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Indianapolis, Ind., April 2.—No break was apparent today in the general shutdown that has gripped the unionized bituminous coal mines of the central competitive district for the past 36 hours.

The miners have indicated—through a speech by John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers—that they will not agree to the demands of the operators for lower wages, even though the lower wages shall be only for a term while conciliatory conferences are going on.

Lewis in a speech to several hundred miners at Taylorville, Ill., said:

"We are willing to meet the operators at any time to negotiate any question. But they cannot force us to concede a wage reduction as the price of a conference for a new scale."

Approximately 170,000 miners throughout the district, which envelops the western Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio and Illinois fields, are not working as result of the general shutdown at midnight Thursday. The miners are demanding retention of the Jacksonville wage agreement, which provides pay of $7.50 per day, while the operators say wage reductions are necessary to meet non-union competition.

In some few isolated districts the operators and miners have entered separate wage agreements, but the bulk of the unionized mines are closed. Almost all of the major mines of the territory have been shut down until a settlement is reached.

At Pittsburgh it was announced the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company, one of the largest companies in that district, had announced that henceforth the seven mines of the company would be operated on a non-union basis. The seven mines employ about 3,100 men.

The matter was called to the attention of President Coolidge and Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of Labor Davis, it was learned here. They all agreed to refrain from taking action at this time the announcement said.

Despite the general shutdown prevalent in the industry, it was announced that coal operators in Chicago had installed their customary April first price cuts. The cuts averaged about fifty cents a ton, it was announced.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 2.—Leaders of the United Mine Workers and operators alike were keeping close watch today on developments in the bituminous fields of the Pittsburgh district.

The first attempt to open mines on a non-union basis following the walkout of 170,000 organized coal miners will be made in that district. The success or failure of the Pittsburgh company's attempt will govern the future action of a number of other large coal companies in the central competitive field, it is believed.

The full scope of the shutdown was becoming apparent today and reports here indicated that more than 170,000 men were out.

With miners observing a holiday yesterday, it was impossible to estimate the effectiveness of the walk-out.

A number of independent operators are keeping their mines open in the central competitive fields and the affected outlying districts, but the big producers have all suspended. In some quarters it was believed the union, by reaching agreements with a number of outlying districts would quickly force a settlement in the central competitive fields.

Many indications, however, pointed to a long conflict and scores of miners were reported preparing to move to industrial centers in search of work.

METHOD USED AT PURE MILK PLANT

Outlined in Tour of Inspection by F. M. Hall, New Sales Manager

EXPLAINS PROCESS

Cleanliness Strictly Observed in Pasteurization; Milk Untouched by Hands

F. M. Hall, of Brainerd has been appointed the new sales manager of the Brainerd Pure Milk plant.

In an inspection of the plant, Mr. Hall described the precise methods used in the handling of milk.

The Brainerd Pure Milk plant is really quite an elaborate plant for a city of this size.

The outside door of the plant opens into the bottle receiving room. To the left is the milk receiving room. A small door, just large enough to receive a ten gallon can, opening from the outside admits the milk.

When the milk is received, a milk thermometer is placed in each can to ascertain the temperature of the milk. It must be 50 degrees or colder, in accordance with the city ordinance, or it is not accepted by the plant.

The milk is then strained into a receiving tank where it is weighed and samples are taken for butter fat and acidity tests.

From this tank the milk is pumped through a nickel pipe into the pasteurizing vat, which is in the next room.

The pasteurizing vat is a large nickel plated tank with a capacity of three hundred and twenty gallons. Three large, motor driven aluminum fans or paddles are hung in this vat. They move slowly back and forth to keep the milk circulating. The pasteurizing vat is in a larger vat containing cold water.

When all the milk has been received, the pasteurizing process begins. The fans are set in motion and live steam is turned into the outer tank, containing the water. Thus, the temperature of both the water and milk is slowly raised at the same time. Because of this, and the constant circulating of the milk by the fans or paddles, the milk is evenly heated. Therefore, the milk does not become scorched and the taste does not become changed.

The temperature of the milk is slowly raised to, between 142 degrees and 145 degrees, and is held there for thirty minutes.

The hardest disease germs to kill, those of tuberculosis, are killed at 139 degrees, so with the milk pasteurized at 142 degrees to 145 degrees there is no chance for any bacteria or germs to live. Still, the milk is not boiled. The boiling point is way up at 212 degrees.

The state is very strict about this part of the process and to insure strict compliance throughout the state, the law requires every pasteurizing plant vat to be equipped with a registering thermometer. This thermometer has a dial placed on the face of a clock works, upon which a hand rests containing red ink. Upon the dial the hand registers the temperature of the milk, the length of time it takes to raise the milk to the required temperature, and the length of time it was held at that temperature.

The bottle washer is located in the bottle receiving room, and opens onto a long series of rollers in the pasteurizing room. The bottles are turned upside down in the cases and set on a chain carrier, which pushes them forward one case length. It allows them to set for a short period and then pushes them forward again.

The bottles and cases are washed by means of many small hot water jets set to strike all parts of the bottles and cases, inside and out. The first set of jets are supplied with water at 140 degrees, which will not break the bottles. The next jets are supplied with water and live steam at 190 degrees. The bottles are again blown with water at 140 degrees to prevent breaking when the bottles are exposed to the air of the room. The bottles are then inspected and stacked up to cool.

When the pasteurizing of the milk has been completed, it is pumped through the filter bags and through the cooler into the bottling machine.

The cooler consists of three sets of coils about sixteen feet long. The first two are water cooled. The third is cooled by pumping brine through them. The milk is forced through smaller pipes within these water and brine filled pipes. The milk reaches the bottling machine at about 34 degrees.

The bottling machine is entirely automatic. The bottles are placed onto the filler by the operator. They are filled and capped without the aid of human hands. The full bottles are passed out onto the bench and the operator puts them then into the cases. When the cases are full, they are pushed into the cooler.

The cooler is a small room equipped with two large brine tanks fastened to the ceiling. Each of these contains an ammonia coil. Due to the fact that the ammonia coils reduce the water surrounding them to a temperature below freezing, a brine of salt, chlorine and water is used. The walls are of cork, four inches thick, and the room is equipped with refrigerator doors.

There is a small door opening to the outside used to load out the delivery trucks and wagons. The room is never above 40 degrees above zero. The whole process is very interesting.

The milk is not touched by human hands from the time it is dumped into the weighing tank in the receiving room. It is not exposed to the air of the room except perhaps two seconds while the filled bottles pass from the filler to the capper.

In addition to the equipment to handle the milk, there are a large DeLaval power separator, a five hundred pound capacity Dishbrow churn, and a cream starter tank.

The receiving room is equipped with a Rice Adams can washer. This differs from the bottle washer in that it works in a circle and the clean cans are taken out at the same opening that they are put in. The milk cans are so hot when they are taken out that they dry almost instantly. This does away with the possibility of careless or inefficient can washing at the various dairies, and also saves the dairyman the trouble of washing his cans at home.

Dairies selling to the pasteurizing plant are under the same rules governing dairies selling raw bottled milk.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS ABOUT EARRINGS

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, April 1.—(UP)—The present vogue for earrings means that women have decided to expose their ears again. While earrings are more popular in Paris than they are in America it is predicted that before long we shall all be wearing them again. At present, the American woman wears earrings mainly for evening purposes.

Boyleish cut hair and longer bobs which expose a portion of the ear continue to be the popular haircuts both in Europe and America. With the severely boyish haircut the button type of earring is preferred to pendant types for day wear. Large buttons of pearl, coral or jet or clusters of tiny seed pearls are the most frequent types worn with closely cropped hair. Where the bob is of medium length but cut shorter over the ears exposing the earlobe, long pendant earrings seem to look a bit marter.

Some of the newer earrings designed for evening wear the three inches long. Brilliants set in old Spanish silver settings in unique designs are decidedly chic just now. Carved circles of green jade with tangles of pearls are also quite lovely and these can be worn during the day as well as at evening. Huge round loops of silver or gold are also shown by some smart jewel shops.

Among the semi-precious stones used for pendant earrings are jade, amelian, amethyst, rose quartz, aquamarine, crystal and garnets. Ornate earrings are preferred to lainty types this season. As a rule the earring harmonizes with some other pieces of jewelry such as a necklace, bracelet or ring.

A certain smart shop is displaying "bridge jewelry," or jewelry that is to be worn for afternoon occasions only. Diamonds seem to be rather out of taste for the simpler afternoon occasion and for this reason semi-precious stones are being stressed.

Rings set with large stones of semi-precious type in silver mountings, are matched by bracelets and bokers. One of the prettiest of these bridge sets includes a choker made of variously colored scarabs set in silver mountings and joined together with slender chain, a matching bracelet, earrings and a large single-stoned scarab ring. Other sets include bead chokers of methyst, turquoise, lapis, carnelian or rosequartz with harmonizing bracelets and rings.

New York, April 2.—(UP)—Fur trimming will not be used as extensively upon coats this Spring as it was last year and many of the markest coats are entirely without it. Collarless coats are included in most of the smart collections thus eliminating any sort of fur trimming. Owing to straight skirt lines, fur is not being used as coat borders.

Coat models using fur trimming are very certain to use just certain types of fur. Among the long-haired trimmings fox, wolf and lynx are of most importance since they are used only on higher grade models. Extremely short-haired furs include ermine, clipped krimmer and calf. Of course, there are many inexpensive coats which are trimmed in variously treated clipped rabbit furs but these are already becoming a drug on the market. Ombre lapin, for instance, one of the newer of the cheap furs, is doomed before it has a start at popularity.

Kasha and jersey are the most popular materials for the sports frock of early Spring type. Palm Beach is sponsoring these materials made in jumper frocks in such shades as pastel green, blue violet and chartreuse.

Transparent velvets have proven so successful that they are now considered the desirable fabrics for the Summer evening wrap. Soft in texture and light in weight they cling in flattering folds to the figure without adding much more warmth than chiffon wraps. Both plain and printed velvets are being used for evening capes and coats. Such wraps may be lined in chiffon or unlined.

Moire silks are also favored for Summer evening wraps. One lovely coat of emerald green moire is colored with fringed strips of moire closely clustered in petal effect. This same model is shown in citron yellow and rose-blue pink.

Monogrammed gloves are both unusual and new. The monogram is placed either on the glove cuff or just below the cuff on the hand. Usually a single letter is placed in a diamond-shaped medallion of contrasting color to the glove.

MORE INVITATIONS FOR COOLIDGE

Washington, April 2.—(UP)—President Coolidge today received two more invitations for summer vacation sites. Richard V. Dennison offered the president his 22,000-acre ranch at Bear Creek, near Yellowstone park, Wyoming.

Fred D. McPherson and S. A. Hanson, of Santa Cruz, asked the president to "come to California."

OUR FISHING ZONE

ETERNAL vigilance seems to be the price of liberty, also the cost of seeing legislation enacted. Local game and fish clubs and Chamber of Commerce sent delegates to the house and senate game and fish hearings and reported favorable reception of the arguments advanced to do away with the present fishing zones, the boundary at St. Cloud marking the separation line of north and south zones and putting Brainerd in the late north season zone.

The game and fish committees of house and senate reported their recommendations. But so far we have seen no action resulting in the passage of the necessary law.

R. R. Gould, president of the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce, wrote Senator C. Rosenmeier as to the progress of things and received this letter from the senator of our district:

"I have yours of March 18th regarding the zoning law. This matter has been zigzagging back and forth, but I understand that the last movement on the part of the house has been to cut it (the zoning) out and the chairman of the committee on game and fish in the senate told me yesterday (March 29) that the law would finally be amended to cut out the zoning law."

The Chamber and other local clubs have no money to keep delegates at the legislature until the bill is finally passed and in the meantime must trust to their representatives and to the impression made in the committee hearings to carry the much sought provision through to final success.

BANK GUARANTY BILL

BANK guaranty laws will not be passed by this session of the legislature, as indicated by observers of legislative events. The state senate failed to approve of a bank guaranty law patterned after the Nebraska guaranty bill.

House and senate had sent a joint commission to Nebraska to study the workings of the law and other banking laws and conditions. Senator James A. Carley of Plainview, a member of this commission, declared it would be unwise to institute such a guaranty law here. He asserted positively that such a bank guaranty law has failed in four states, Oklahoma, Texas, North Dakota and South Dakota.

In any bank guaranty law three factors are to be considered, the public at large, the depositors and the bankers. If the state is to guarantee all banks, then all citizens are responsible, for we all pay taxes directly or indirectly.

AN INTOLERABLE DEGREE OF IRRELEVANCY

"SENATE discussions are at times marked by an intolerable degree of irrelevancy," is the statement of Senator William Cabell Bruce, democrat of Maryland.

He continues: "In the recent filibuster the minutes were as precious as nuggets of gold yet there were no rules capable of checking the discussion."

"Another objectionable feature of the antiquated senate rules is the fact that we have no assurance of the full discussion and disposal of bills in their regular order. Such situations as these cannot fail to meet the severe disapproval of the American people in the near future. However, I do not agree with Vice President Dawes that a majority cloture rule is the proper solution."

Senator Borah, on the other hand, believes in free and unlimited debate.

The senators, as a rule, are a law unto themselves and senatorial courtesy is covered in unwritten rules which seem to allow the greatest freedom in debate.

BAGLEY "IN THE IRON RANGE COUNTRY"

"JOHN MCGOVERN, sports editor of the Minneapolis Journal, is due for a lot of free instruction in Minnesota geography," says the Montevideo News. "In his column Wednesday he referred to the Bagley high school basketball team, champions of the northern district, as 'the boys from the iron country.'"

"Even in our benighted section it is known that Bagley is in Clearwater county, some rods west of the open pits. They have their iron daily there, but don't dig it out of the ground. Some justification for the mistake is found in McGovern's further assertion that Bagley 'has a rangy team'. But not iron rangy."

The same mistake, in assigning Bagley to iron range country, was made by a press association. Some of us thought it might be a new "iron country" near the Lake Lillian reputed oil field.

BRAINERD GUN CLUB

ONE of the outdoor sports which has devotees every bit as enthusiastic as our golf club members, is the Brainerd Gun club, which opens its spring season by a practice shoot some time this month.

The Brainerd members have brought renown to their club. Harold Kalland has won honors at state meets and has shot at Dayton, Ohio, and other cities where national meets were held.

George Trent, Sr., is one of the best known professionals in the state and always turns in a good score. Other members have been equally as active in club affairs.

In the contests held, some at Breezy Point, it was remarkable to see men 66 years old or more shoot fine scores. It speaks well for their mode of life to see such steady nerves and muscles.

BATHING is sinful, according to many non-English speaking folks, when it involves cleansing the entire body, says a United Press report. Among our kids who have the privilege of an old swimming hole, swimming is considered healthful and a source of real joy, but bathing in a bath tub on Saturday night, plus soap and brush and rough, crash towel, is an abomination and something to be avoided or if indulged in, to be carried out in a refractory spirit.

THE $222,523 spent annually by Todd county farmers, as part of Minnesota's $14,638,000 yearly feed bill, can be reduced to a mere fraction of that amount if the farmers in that county will plant more alfalfa this spring, according to the Blue Valley Creamery Institute.

TEACHING the artistic use of rouge instead of forbidding cosmetics among high school pupils, was advocated before the Illinois State Teachers' Association.

"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. pictureization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Ward, poor college student, working as a dancing partner for rich women, falls in love with Sally Smith, a cigarette girl. She warns him against the mysterious and beautiful Mrs. Hammond, habitue of the roadhouse, who finds her "thrill" in "hunting" Bob, who, however, trusts her. She offers him free use of her secret apartment. Bob quarrels with Sally, breaks up a wild party she attends, and goes to Mrs. Hammond. Sally and her friend Mazie reveal that Mrs. Hammond is the wife of Aldrich, a great financier.

Sally, who had been listening eagerly, clutched at a chance to save Bob yet from the clutches of the designing vampire.

"Some wives are cheaters, too!" she cried, "and I could tell you something about your wife!"

Aldrich's guilty conscience grabbed at this straw in the wind. Man-like, he became at once the injured party, covering up his own shortcomings by a quick and terrible rage. The double standard of morality was not for his household. Croesus' wife, like Caesar's, must be above reproach. He thundered over Sally:

"What are you hinting at, girl? Tell me at once!"

Sally, frightened by his outburst, looked to Mazie helplessly. Mazie Aldrich reiterated his furious demands. Mazie shrugged and nodded as much as to say:

"The cat's out of the bag."

Sally blurted a fragmentary and fearful story of how Mrs. Hammond had won Bob from her, from his college, from his honor. By the time she had finished, Aldrich's temper was real. It was not his wife's transgression that infuriated him so much as the realization that he, the world's richest man, had been cheated.

Beautiful Mrs. Hammond was curled up on a fluffy bearskin at his feet.

He cried out for the address of the "lovenest."

Mazie, who for all her sophistication was as frightened as Sally by the stark melodrama that was unfolding in their hands, gave it to him, moved by animus for Mrs. Hammond.

Aldrich stepped back; whipped a pistol from his pocket, and declared:

"Both of them will suffer for this. Both!"

Then he was gone, raving.

Raw fear paralyzed Sally. Oh, what had she done, in her spitefulness? Not alone Mrs. Hammond, but Bob, too, would suffer. She fell on her knees before Mazie.

"Mazie, Mazie, take me there, to Mrs. Hammond's apartment, quick! Please, for God's sake. We must beat Aldrich there, or he'll kill Bob!"

"Serves him right!" declared Mazie.

But Sally's frantic pleas moved her, despite herself. Swiftly she threw on a cloak, and raced downstairs to a taxi with Sally.

Meanwhile, in the cozy studio of the lovenest apartment, Bob Ward sat in a deep chair before the fireplace. There was everything to make him comfortable—and beautiful Mrs. Hammond was curled up on a fluffy bearskin rug at his feet, her gorgeous head pillowed on his knee. But Bob was far from comfortable. Youth goes to extremes in all things, and then tries to take the first train back. But here was a ravishing beautiful woman to keep Bob to the cynical and immoral tangent on which he had fallen off when disillusionment gripped him. In sheer bitterness of heart, malice of soul, Bob had sworn all the things that up to now he had held dear in life, and had flung himself hotly to Mrs. Hammond—

Already her eyes were misted, her voice low and vibrant with passion, as she anticipated the Stellan hours with her young Adonis in this luxurious temple of love.

"Everything is lovely, Bob, except a homey atmosphere. I'll run into the bedroom and put on my negligee. My lovely negligee that I have been saving especially for this precious hour with—the most precious boy in the world!"

Bob forced himself to smile; and when, in getting to her feet with the aid of his outstretched hand, she suddenly flung herself into his lap, melted into the strength and youth of his splendid body, Bob felt himself forced, through a sense of obligation if not of reciprocal passion, to display interest.

There came a furious ringing of the bell.

"Don't go! It's nothing—nobody! Don't go!" pleaded Mrs. Hammond, in a tense, thickened voice, fighting frantically to prevent this important moment of consummate passion from fleeing. Bob hesitated; but when the clamor continued, he put Mrs. Hammond from him, and strode to the door.

When he opened it, Sally stepped in, and cried, "Thank God we're in time!"

She bent a hateful look toward Mrs. Hammond. In that woman's hard breathing and rumpled condition, Sally read that her prayerful ejaculation of relief applied as significantly to Bob's virtue as to his life. She looked bravely up into Bob's face, and said: "Her husband is coming here now to kill you!"

Bob merely shrugged. He was not one to run away from threatened danger. Somehow, though, he couldn't feel so brave under the frank gaze of little Sally Smith. Somehow, the miasma odor of the flesh trap that had been intoxicating him in this room, alone with Mrs. Hammond, had cleared with the bright advent of Sally's combed-honey hair.

He felt the sweetness of that first day, a week since, rushing back into his consciousness.

"Oh, Bob, I can explain everything!" pleaded Sally.

Mazie broke in, "Say, Big Boy, you won't be showing no white feather, but just common sense, if you mosey along with us right now. You needn't have no squeams about leaving that Fanny in there because she's a snake in the grass. She put Mannion up to buying those clothes, and me up to inviting him and Sally so she could have a clear field with you. I'll furnish you with the whole details, only not now. There's a nut coming here with a gun! He'd have been here by now, only I slipped the doorman, the telephone operator, and the elevator boy twenty bucks each to give him a bum steer and take him to the roof and lose him, until we had time to clear out—"

Sally took hold of Bob's hands. It was like some magic flowing into his veins.

Mazie was chuckling: "Where's them ideas, you was so particular about? Come on, Big Boy, let's go!"

CHAPTER XVII

Scarcely three weeks after the exciting events of that Sunday afternoon, the purple shadows of a perfect June afternoon were darkling the Hudson, far below the Hall of fame, while the last rays of the sun, as it slid like a great flaming water down behind the black rim of the Pallades across the river, gilded the domes and roofs of the University buildings.

The Commencement crowd, at once quiet with the sadness of passing things and gladness with the promise of signal futures, was dispersing. One name was on many tongues—Bob Ward, to whose eternal enshrinement in N. Y. U.'s football history had been added the lustre of graduation at the head of his class in the School of Engineering with honors.

A group of classmates stood on the steps of Gould Memorial Library and raised their young voices in "The Pallades." Hats in hand, faces earnest, eyes dim, they sang:

Bob was there, in the center; Freddy holding one of his arms, and the other. Their voices dropped to a reverent whisper for the third stanza of the classic song:

"But college friendships all must sever,
And fade as does the dying day,
And closest kinship all be broken
As out in life we wind our way."

Now they had finished. Now they were shaking hands all around, each looking sheepish because of the tears he felt in his eyes; each promising to write, to attend reunions, and all that. Now they had parted. This was the end!

The end? No, the Beginning! Bob walked briskly, proudly, to the campus gate, where little Sally Smith, whose starry eyes had feasted on his glories through all this livelong afternoon, waited unobtrusively until he should have finished with his chums the last rites of college friendship.

Then, arm in arm, they walked happily away. And the path that stretched ahead of them through the years was as bright as the burr of the setting sun on Sally's combed-honey hair.

The success of the big Knights Templar ball given last night in the Masonic Temple far exceeded the expectations of the Knights themselves. It seemed to be the nucleus of the turning out of the fashionable set of Brainerd and they vied with one another to make it the most elaborate event of the year. Then too the fair sex of the swagger set of the city seemed to grasp this opportunity to display their spring or Easter coming out gowns and the scene was made especially beautiful. Graham's full orchestra furnished the music for the occasion and the merry dance did not break up until nearly 2 o'clock this morning. No refreshments were served. The Knights Templar are to be congratulated on the event.

Communications are not to exceed 500 words. All must be signed, and will be published with name of writer.

To the Editor:

As election day is again drawing near many office seeking applicants are circulating their cards asking for support, stating how long they lived here, etc. Now we don't care how long you have lived here or what color your hair is, what we want to know is what principles do you stand for, do you favor democracy or dictatorship, harmony or discord, do you believe in oppression or liberty and freedom, are you willing to fight to improve the morale of the growing generation or don't you care what becomes of them providing you reap financial gains. How do you expect our vote if we don't know what you represent, if you can't tell us you don't deserve our support, and then if one does not vote he is threatened with a fine. I say it's the bunk; minor officers have minor responsibilities, but if we were more particular in choosing our town and county officers we would get better representation.

Sally, who had been listening eagerly, clutched at a chance to save Bob yet from the clutches of the designing vampire. "Some wives are cheaters, too!" she cried, "and I could tell you something about your wife!"

Aldrich's guilty conscience grabbed at this straw in the wind. Man-like, he became at once the injured party, covering up his own shortcomings by a quick and terrible rage. The double standard of morality was not for his household. Croesus's wife, like Caesar's, must be above reproach. He thundered over Sally:

"What are you hinting at, girl? Tell me at once!"

Sally, frightened by his outburst, looked to Mazie helplessly, while Aldrich reiterated his furious demands. Mazie shrugged and nodded as much as to say:

"The cat's out of the bag."

Sally blurted a fragmentary and fearful story of how Mrs. Hammond had won Bob from her, from his

He felt the sweetness of that first day, a week since, rushing back into his consciousness.

"Oh, Bob, I can explain everything!" pleaded Sally.

Mazie broke in. "Say, Big Boy, you won't be showing no white feather, but just common sense, if you mosey along with us right now. You needn't have no squeams about leaving that Fanny in there because she's a snake in the grass. She put Mannon up to buying those clothes, and me up to inviting him and Sally so she could have a clear field with you. I'll furnish you with the whole details, only not now. There's a nut coming here with a gun! He'd have been here by now, only I slipped the doorman, the telephone operator, and the elevator boy twenty bucks each to give him a bum steer and take him to the roof and lose him, until we had time to clear out."

Sally took hold of Bob's hands. It was like some magic flowing into his veins.

Mazie was chuckling: "Where's them ideas? you was so particular about? Come on, Big Boy, let's go!"

Beautiful Mrs. Hammond was curled up on a fluffy bearskin at his feet.

college, from his honor. By the time she had finished, Aldrich's temper was real. It was not his wife's transgression that infuriated him so much as the realization that he, the world's richest man, had been cheated.

He cried out for the address of the "lovenest."

Mazie, who for all her sophistication was as frightened as Sally by the stark melodrama that was unfolding in their hands, gave it to him, moved by animus for Mrs. Hammond.

Aldrich stepped back; whipped a pistol from his pocket, and exclaimed:

"Both of them will suffer for this, both!"

Then he was gone, raving.

Raw fear paralyzed Sally. Oh, what had she done, in her spitefulness? Not alone Mrs. Hammond, but Bob, too, would suffer. She fell on her knees before Mazie.

"Mazie, Mazie, take me there, to Mrs. Hammond's apartment, quick! Please, for God's sake. We must beat Aldrich there, or he'll kill Bob!"

"Serves him right!" declared Mazie.

But Sally's frantic pleas moved her, despite herself. Swiftly she threw on a cloak, and raced downstairs to a taxi with Sally.

Meanwhile, in the cozy studio of the lovenest apartment, Bob Ward sat in a deep chair before the fireplace. There was everything to make him comfortable and beautiful Mrs. Hammond was curled up on a fluffy bearskin rug at his feet, her gorgeous head pillowed on his knee. But Bob was far from comfortable. Youth goes to extremes in all things, and then tries to take the first train back. But here was a ravishingly beautiful woman to keep Bob to the cynical and immoral tangent on which he had indulged off when disillusionment gripped him in sheer bitterness of heart, malice of soul. Bob had sworn all the things that up to now he had held dear in life, and had flung himself hotly to Mrs. Hammond.

Already her eyes were misted, her voice low and vibrant with passion, as she anticipated the Stilian hours with her young Adonis in this luxurious temple of love.

(The End.)

To the Editor:

As election day is again drawing near many office seeking applicants are circulating their cards asking for support, stating how long they lived here, etc. Now we don't care how long you have lived here or what color your hair is, what we want to know is what principles do you stand for, do you favor democracy or dictatorship, harmony or discord, do you believe in oppression or liberty and freedom, are you willing to fight to improve the morale of the growing generation or don't you care what becomes of them providing you reap financial gains. How do you expect our vote if we don't know what you represent, if you can't tell us you don't deserve our support, and then if one does not vote he is threatened with a fine. I say it's the bunk; minor officers have minor responsibilities, but if we were more particular in choosing our town and county officers we would get better representation.

"Is that so? I'm sorry to hear that. Here is some we made today. Try it. I'm sure you'll find it very good."

"No, indeed," she said. "You don't fool me again; just give me two pounds of ham and I'll make my own hamburger."—Forbes Magazine.

CAMBRIDGE WINS ANNUAL BOAT RACE

ROWS TO VICTORY IN 79TH RENEWAL OF CLASSIC EVENT

THOUSANDS OF SPECTATORS
LINE THE THAMES
COURSE

CAMBRIDGE WON BY 3 LENGTHS
OVER THE OXFORD
UNIVERSITY

Ship's Hotel, Mortlake, Eng., April 2.—(UP)—Cambridge rowed to victory today in the 79th renewal of the classic inter-university boat race while thousands of spectators representing all classes of English society urged the oarsmen from along the Thames course.

Oxford won the toss and chose the Surrey side of the river and a few minutes later the crews were away on the long pull around an elbow in the Thames. Tonight the winners will celebrate victory and the losers will suffer defeat with boisterous parties in London.

Cambridge won by three lengths. The victory was the 38th for Cambridge since the inception of the race and the seventh post-war victory for Cambridge crews. Oxford has won only once since the war.

The time was 20 minutes, 16 seconds. The course record is 18 minutes, 29 seconds, established by Oxford in 1911.

Choppy water caused both crews trouble and at Duke's Meadows, the 3-mile point, both crews were foundering slightly with the shells nearly level. At Barnes Bridge, 3 and 3-4 miles from the start, Cambridge was leading by a quarter length.

H. T. Kingsbury, of New York and a former student at Yale, repeatedly was picked out by the broadcaster who was announcing the race, for special mention. He was conceded to be one of the better Oxford oarsmen and the Evening Standard said today that he was the best in either shell.

Cambridge's slight lead at the start was overcome by Oxford and as the shells approached the 3-4 mile mark, the broadcaster announced their position with the observation: "That's the American in the Oxford boat. He is the best oarsman that ever rowed in any race."

Further along with Cambridge again in the lead, the broadcaster announced the positions, adding that "Kingsbury was rowing wonderfully."

Oxford was extremely ragged toward the end of the race, rowing hard in Cambridge's wake while the leading shell moved easily.

Schenectady, N. Y.—I. Y. Ireland, local fighter, won a decision from Young Montreal of Providence.

Training for Derby

Osmand, ace of J. E. Widener's three-year-olds and winter book favorite to win the fifty-third renewal of the Kentucky derby, arrived at the track from Mr. Widener's Elmdorf farm near Lexington, to enter training for the classic.

Mr. Widener also has named Chance Shot and Kely for the derby, but Osmand, a gelding, is considered his best bet.

Pete Coyne, recently signed by Mr. Widener to train his horses, will have charge of Osmand during his preparation for the $50,000 added race to be run at Churchill Downs May 14.

UNWRITTEN LAWS OF BASEBALL ARE INVOKED

JOHN A. HEYDLER, OF NATIONAL LEAGUE, CALLS MEETING
OF CLUB OWNERS

ROGERS HORNSBY STOCK OWN-
ING CASE TO BE CON-
SIDERED

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, April 2. — John A. Heydler, president of the National League, today called a special meeting of the club owners to decide if the "unwritten laws" of baseball gave him authority to prevent Rogers Hornsby from playing with any other club but the Cardinals while owning stock in the St. Louis club.

This special meeting will be held in Pittsburgh, probably next Friday. Definite announcement of the date will be made early next week.

In connection with the announcement, Heydler said in an exclusive interview with the United Press:

"Everything that possibly can be done will be done to settle the Hornsby case without having it taken to court or appealed to the baseball commissioner's office."

"This Hornsby case," Heydler continued, "is simply a difference between two parties which is threatening the interests and the investments of seven other parties. Differences such as exist in this case cannot be settled over long distance telephones or in newspaper columns and I feel sure that if we can all get together around the table it can be adjusted."

"Hornsby, as a player and as a minority stock holder in the St. Louis club, has support for his contention, and Sam Breadon, as president and majority stock holder of the club, also has weight on his side. I feel that in situations of this kind, in baseball or in the commercial field, each side can gain more by giving in a little through arbitration and that is what I am trying to bring about."

"I will admit John McGraw of the New York club is right in his contention that the constitution and by-laws of the National League do not authorize me to prevent Hornsby from playing with the Giants as long as he owns stock in the St. Louis club. But I do contend that the principles and what we refer to as the 'unwritten laws' of baseball do vest me with that authority."

JAWN McGRAW IS ALL SET FOR ANOTHER PENNANT

WANTS TO CELEBRATE HIS SIL-VER JUBILEE YEAR WITH
ANOTHER VICTORY

EVEN IF IT ENTAILS WRECKING
WHOLE CLUB AND SPEND-
ING FORTUNE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, April 2.—With a great ambition to celebrate his silver jubilee year as manager of the New York Giants with another national league pennant, John McGraw set out during the winter season to organize a pennant winning combination even if it entailed wrecking his whole club and spending a fortune.

He proceeded a fair distance tearing down his old club and digging into the bottom layers of the bankroll when he disposed of George Kelly, Frank Frisch, Jimmy Ring and Irish Meusel and other less well known players for Rogers Hornsby, Eddie Roush, George Harper and Burley Grimes and if extra money wasn't involved in any of these deals some considerable money surely was put out for Al Devormer, Revo Lebourveau and a whole contingent of highly rated rookies.

After looking over what he had as a campaigner for the 1927 race, McGraw modestly accepted congratulations and did not protest against winter predictions that the Giants should be heavy favorites to win the championship.

He had what smart critics and rival managers admitted was as good an infield as any in the league in Bill Terry, Rogers Hornsby, Travis Jackson and Freddy Lindstrom.

The outfield, long a problem of the defense, looked like the real thing with Roush and Ross Young as the headliners and Harper, Lebourveau, Tyson, Mueller and Ott for left field. There was so much outfield talent that experts figured he would use some of them in a trade to strengthen what was considered to be a weakness behind the bat.

But McGraw said he was satisfied with Devormer, Hamlin and Cummings and he proved it when he obtained Henline from the Phillies and turned him over to the Brooklyn Robins.

The pitching staff with Barnes, McQuillan, Grimes, Greenfield, Fitzsimmons, Henry, Thomas, Bentley and others looked strong. Barnes, McQuillan and Grimes are first string regulars and what McGraw thought of Greenfield and Fitzsimmons was shown when he refused to trade either one of them in a straight swap for Adolpho Luque, Cincinnati pitcher, whom the Giants later offered to purchase for $15,000.

It was a great looking combination until things started to happen. And since things started to happen the Giants haven't an outfield, the infield is uncertain and the pitching staff is temporarily disorganized.

The worst blow came with the loss of Young, a great outfielder and one of the most valuable players in baseball. It was followed by the refusal of Roush to report to the training camp which delayed by about five weeks the necessary experiment to find the right combination and train it.

The infield situation, a very involved one, is capitalized by the business difficulties of Hornsby. John A. Heydler, president of the National league, says Hornsby cannot play with the Giants until he disposes of his stock in the St. Louis Cardinals. McGraw says Heydler has no rules behind him for support and he will go to civil court about it.

Hornsby is caught in the middle and unless he has a change of heart he will remain there. He insists he will not sell his stock for less than $105 a share and his best offer is well below that. He contends if he is ruled off the Giants for being a St. Louis stockholder the Giants will have to pay him his salary, a salary said now to be $50,000 instead of the $40,000 sum mentioned at the time he signed his contract.

In addition to the Hornsby situation, Travis Jackson was operated on for appendicitis yesterday at Memphis, Tenn., and probably will be lost to the team for several weeks.

The pitching staff with McQuillan and Grimes not in shape, is not so good.

The Giants may win the pennant regardless but they can't be started as favorites.

ELIMINATION TOURNNEY

WINS TEN ROUND DECISION
FROM THE NEW ZEALANDER

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Madison Square Garden, New York, April 2.—Working like a pile driver pounding its way through mud, gravel and granite, Paulino the basque strong man almost forced himself into Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament in the Garden last night when he won a ten-round decision from Tom Heenev, New Zealand heavyweight.

Paulino in winning by a slight margin against an opponent who could not be classed by his performance in this country as a contender, did not show himself as a champion but he did supply reasons to believe that no Jack Sharkey, Jim Maloney, Jack Delaney or the others contending for the heavyweight championship could knock him out in ten rounds.

It was Paulino's invincibility against hard punching of Heenev for six rounds that proved him to have a stomach of steel and a jaw of iron. Paulino outpointed Heenev by a score of five to three with two rounds even and it was so far from one-sided that one of the judges, Charles Mathewson, voted for Heenev.

CAMBRIDGE WINS ANNUAL BOAT RACE

ROWS TO VICTORY IN 79TH RENEWAL OF CLASSIC EVENT

THOUSANDS OF SPECTATORS
COURSE

CAMBRIDGE WON BY 3 LENGTHS
OVER THE OXFORD
UNIVERSITY

Ship's Hotel, Mortlake, Eng., April 2.—(UP)—Cambridge rowed to victory today in the 79th renewal of the classic inter-university boat race while thousands of spectators representing all classes of English society urged the oarsmen from along the Thames course.

Oxford won the toss and chose the Surrey side of the river and a few minutes later the crews were away on the long pull around an elbow in the Thames. Tonight the winners will celebrate victory and the losers will suffer defeat with boisterous parties in London.

Cambridge won by three lengths. The victory was the 38th for Cambridge since the inception of the race and the seventh post-war victory for Cambridge crews. Oxford has won only once since the war.

The time was 20 minutes, 15 seconds.

The course record is 18 minutes, 29 seconds, established by Oxford in 1911.

Choppy water caused both crews trouble and at Duke's Meadows, the 3-mile point, both crews were floundering slightly with the shells nearly level. At Barnes Bridge, 3 and 3-4 miles from the start, Cambridge was leading by a quarter length.

H. T. Kingsbury, of New York and a former student at Yale, repeatedly was picked out by the broadcaster who was announcing the race, for special mention. He was conceded to be one of the better Oxford oarsmen and the Evening Standard said today that he was the best in either shell.

Cambridge's slight lead at the start was overcome by Oxford and as the shells approached the 3-4 mile mark, the broadcaster announced their position with the observation: "That's the American in the Oxford boat. He is the best oarsman that ever rowed in any race."

Further along with Cambridge again in the lead, the broadcaster announced the positions, adding that "Kingsbury was rowing wonderfully."

Oxford was extremely ragged toward the end of the race, rowing hard in Cambridge's wake while the leading shell moved easily.

Schenectady, N. Y.—I. Y. Ireland, local fighter, won a decision from Young Montreal of Providence.

Training for Derby

Osmond, ace of J. E. Widener's three-year-olds and winter book favorite to win the fifty-third renewal of the Kentucky derby, arrived at the track from Mr. Widener's Elmdorf farm near Lexington, to enter training for the classic.

Mr. Widener also has named Chance Shot and Kely for the derby, but Osmond, a gelding, is considered his best bet.

Pete Coyne, recently signed by Mr. Widener to train his horses, will have charge of the team during his preparation for the $50,000 added race to be run at Churchill Downs May 14.

UNWRITTEN LAWS OF BASEBALL ARE INVOKED

JOHN A. HEYDLER, OF NATIONAL LEAGUE, CALLS MEETING
OF CLUB OWNERS

ROGERS HORNSBY STOCK OWN-
ING CASE TO BE CON-
SIDERED

By HENRY L. FARRELL.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1927, by United Press)
New York, April 2. — John A. Heydler, president of the National League, today called a special meeting of the club owners to decide if the "unwritten laws" of baseball gave him authority to prevent Rogers Hornsby from playing with any other club but the Cardinals while owning stock in the St. Louis club.

This special meeting will be held in Pittsburgh, probably next Friday. Definite announcement of the date will be made early next week.

In connection with the announcement, Heydler said in an exclusive interview with the United Press:

"Everything that possibly can be done will be done to settle the Hornsby case without having it taken to court or appealed to the baseball commissioner's office."

"This Hornsby case," Heydler continued, "is simply a difference between two parties which is threatening the interests and the investments of seven other parties. Differences such as exist in this case cannot be settled over long distance telephones or in newspaper columns and I feel sure that if we can all get together around the table it can be adjusted."

"Hornsby, as a player and as a minority stock holder in the St. Louis club, has support for his contention; and Sam Breadon, as president and majority stock holder of the club, also has weight on his side. I feel that in situations of this kind, in baseball or in the commercial field, each side can gain more by giving in a little through arbitration and that is what I am trying to bring about."

"I will admit John McGraw of the New York club is right in his contention that the constitution and by-laws of the National League do not authorize me to prevent Hornsby from playing with the Giants as long as he owns stock in the St. Louis club. But I do contend that the principles and what we refer to as the 'unwritten laws' of baseball do vest me with that authority."

TWO BROTHERS ARE CHARGED WITH MURDER

Smithville, Tenn., April 2.—(UP)—Two brothers were given a preliminary hearing in a squire's court here today on a charge of murdering George Estes four years ago. Their supposed victim's body has never been found.

The defendants are Bob and Andy Johnson. Bob married Estes' widow a year after the alleged murder.

Arrest of the brothers, who live at the headwaters of Dry creek near Short Mountain, followed reports that Bob Johnson was the informer of federal agents who have arrested 31 alleged moonshiners in that section recently.

San Francisco — Frankie Klick, San Francisco, easily outpointed Olie Bartlett, St. Paul heavyweight, in 10 rounds.

JAWN McGRAW IS ALL SET FOR ANOTHER PENNANT

WANTS TO CELEBRATE HIS SIL-
VER JUBILEE YEAR WITH
ANOTHER VICTORY

EVEN IF IT ENTAILS WRECKING
WHOLE CLUB AND SPEND-
ING FORTUNE

By HENRY L. FARRELL.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, April 2.—With a great ambition to celebrate his silver jubilee year as manager of the New York Giants with another national league pennant, John McGraw set out during the winter season to organize a pennant winning combination even if it entailed wrecking his whole club and spending a fortune.

He proceeded a fair distance tearing down his old club and digging into the bottom layers of the bankroll when he disposed of George Kelly, Frank Frisch, Jimmy Ring and Irish Meusel and other less well known players for Rogers Hornsby, Eddie Roush, George Harper and Burley Grimes and if extra money wasn't involved in any of these deals some considerable money surely was put out for Al Devormer, Bevo Lombard and a whole contingent of highly rated rookies.

After looking over what he had as a campaigner for the 1927 race, McGraw modestly accepted congratulations and did not protest against winter predictions that the Giants should be heavy favorites to win the championship.

He had what smart critics and rival managers admitted was as good an infield as any in the league in Bill Terry, Rogers Hornsby, Travis Jackson and Freddy Lindstrom.

The outfield, long a problem of the defense, looked like the real thing with Roush and Ross Young as the headlines and Harper, LeBourveau, Tyson, Mueller and Ott for left field. There was so much outfield talent that experts figured he would use some of them in a trade to strengthen what was considered to be a weakness behind the bat.

But McGraw said he was satisfied with Devormer, Hamby and Cummings and he proved it when he obtained Henline from the Phillies and turned him over to the Brooklyn Robins.

The pitching staff with Barnes, McQuillan, Grimes, Greenfield, Fitzsimmons, Henry, Thomas, Bentley and others looked strong. Barnes, McQuillan and Grimes are first string regulars and what McGraw thought of Greenfield and Fitzsimmons was shown when he refused to trade either one of them in a straight swap for Adolpho Luque, Cincinnati pitcher, whom the Giants later offered to purchase for $15,000.

It was a great looking combination until things started to happen. And since things started to happen the Giants haven't an outfield, the infield is uncertain and the pitching staff is temporarily disorganized.

The worst blow came with the loss of Young, a great outfielder and one of the most valuable players in baseball. It was followed by the refusal of Roush to report to the training camp which delayed by about five weeks the necessary experiment to find the right combination and train it.

The infield situation, a very involved one, is capitalized by the business difficulties of Hornsby.

John A. Heydler, president of the National league, says Hornsby cannot play with the Giants until he disposes of his stock in the St. Louis Cardinals. McGraw says Heydler has no rules behind him for support and he will go to civil court about it.

Hornsby is caught in the middle and unless he has a change of heart he will remain there. He insists he will not sell his stock for less than $105 a share and his best offer is well below that. He contends if he is ruled off the Giants for being a St. Louis stockholder the Giants will have to pay him his salary, a salary said now to be $50,000 instead of the $40,000 sum mentioned at the time he signed his contract.

In addition to the Hornsby situation, Travis Jackson was operated on for appendicitis yesterday at Memphis, Tenn., and probably will be lost to the team for several weeks.

The pitching staff with McQuillan and Grimes not in shape, is not so good.

The Giants may win the pennant regardless but they can't be started as favorites.

Los Angeles — Russ Whalen, Chicago won on a foul from Tommy O'Brien Santa Monica, O'Brien hit low in the fifth round of a 10-rounder.

Daniel Boone Fought in Army of Braddock

Daniel Boone was one of the bravest of those early settlers of the British colonies in America who penetrated vast wildernesses, fought with hostile Indians, and faced death daily. He was brought up amid the hardships of the frontier, when boys had to show a man's courage and do a man's work.

The new country at this time was full of trouble. There was bitter hostility between the English and French, the French being helped by the Indians. Braddock was making his campaign against the French, and the war seemed in the air everywhere.

Daniel Boone was a sturdy boy, strong for his age, and fond of adventure. He saw an opportunity to satisfy this desire by joining the army of Braddock, and he accordingly offered his services. These were accepted and he was made chief wagoner and blacksmith.

Braddock later was ambushed by hostile French and Indians, and in the general rout which followed a large number of British soldiers were killed. Many of the drivers who were trapped were slain. Daniel finally managed to cut the traces of his team, and escaped down a ravine followed by a hail of shot and arrows.

When he was thirty-four, Boone, with five companions, set out on the exploration trip to Kentucky. Boone was taken prisoner by the savages and they liked him so well that they wouldn't let him go, but finally he got away. If he had been unable to escape at the time Braddock's army was attacked, he, of course, never would have made the trip to Kentucky, and the development of the rich and productive lands which he opened up would have been delayed several years and the march of civilization hindered.

Verdun Today

Eleven years ago began the first phase of the greatest and bloodiest battle of world history—the titanic struggle for the possession of Verdun, key to the conquest of France. Armies of millions crashed together in that Armageddon and France reeled under the impact of the terrific blows of Ludendorff. Little is left today of that holocaust. We stood on Dead Man's hill the other day and around could be seen a most rustic and peaceful landscape. An early spring sun, mellow and beneficent, was turning the fields into a deeper hue of green, peasants were busy here and there, little children played games on the roads. Near the remnants of Fort Veaux, where the blood bath once reached such proportions that it staggered humanity, a small herd of sheep was nibbling at the short grass and the boy that watched the beasts was singing: "Aupres de Ma Blonde!"—Pierre Van Paassen, in the Atlanta Constitution.

The Gregarious Habit

Beasts that prey upon other animals do not live in herds. Predatory birds are not found in flocks. Grafters, thieves and criminals among men instinctively avoid the society of other people. Viewed from this standpoint, it is a hopeful sign that humanity seems to be developing the gregarious habit more widely. People are crowding into cities. They are gathering more often in conventions, conferences and meetings of all kinds, ranging from a neighborhood birthday party to a political convention.—Jamestown Post.

"Dead Man" Wandering

A living "dead man" is wandering somewhere about the streets of San Francisco despite the well-meant efforts of Coroner Leland to get him into the morgue. Doctor Leland found a man lying on the sidewalk. He made a superficial examination and pronounced him dead. He then called the coroner's wagon and police detectives. When he returned from the telephone the "dead man" had walked away, leaving Doctor Leland to explain as best he could to the investigating detectives.

Papers Delayed

The railway line was flooded after heavy rainstorms, and the traveler was obliged to break his journey at a village. He made his way in the pouring rain to a restaurant and said to the waiter there: "It is like the Deluge!"

"The what?"
"The Deluge. Haven't you read about the Deluge—Noah and the ark?"
"No, sir; you see, because of the flood we haven't had any newspapers in three days."

MAYORALTY ELECTION AT CITY OF CHICAGO

Chicago, April 2. — (UP)—The military may be brought into Chicago Tuesday to safeguard the mayoralty election.

William Hale Thompson, republican candidate and former mayor, through a lieutenant has asked Governor Len Small to have the National Guard in readiness to send to Chicago in event of trouble at the polls. Small's answer has not been given.

Thompson's request for troops—which would give the mayoralty election the aspect of a military plebiscite—is based on charges that the democrats, whose candidate is Mayor William E. Dever, are attempting to create a race hatred. Part of Thompson's main support is through the negro districts of the south side.

In addition to the request for troops it became known that the police will maintain strict vigilance Tuesday. Thirty-five machine squads will be in readiness. A rifle-armed guard will be on duty at each of the "trouble wards." There will be 150 two man flivver squads on duty and 90 five men squads patrolling the streets.

Daniel Boone Fought in Army of Braddock

Daniel Boone was one of the bravest of those early settlers of the British colonies in America who penetrated vast wildernesses, fought with hostile Indians, and faced death daily. He was brought up amid the hardships of the frontier, when boys had to show a man's courage and do a man's work.

The new country at this time was full of trouble. There was bitter hostility between the English and French, the French being helped by the Indians. Braddock was making his campaign against the French, and the war seemed in the air everywhere.

Daniel Boone was a sturdy boy, strong for his age, and fond of adventure. He saw an opportunity to satisfy this desire by joining the army of Braddock, and he accordingly offered his services. These were accepted and he was made chief wagoner and blacksmith.

Braddock later was ambushed by hostile French and Indians, and in the general rout which followed a large number of British soldiers were killed. Many of the drivers who were trapped were slain. Daniel finally managed to cut the traces of his team, and escaped down a ravine followed by a hail of shot and arrows.

When he was thirty-four, Boone, with five companions, set out on the exploration trip to Kentucky. Boone was taken prisoner by the savages and they liked him so well that they wouldn't let him go, but finally he got away. If he had been unable to escape at the time Braddock's army was attacked, he, of course, never would have made the trip to Kentucky, and the development of the rich and productive lands which he opened up would have been delayed several years and the march of civilization hindered.

Verdun Today

Eleven years ago began the first phase of the greatest and bloodiest battle of world history—the titanic struggle for the possession of Verdun, key to the conquest of France. Armies of millions crashed together in that Armageddon and France reeled under the impact of the terrific blows of Ludendorff. Little is left today of that holocaust. We stood on Dead Man's hill the other day and around could be seen a most rustic and peaceful landscape. An early spring sun, mellow and beneficent, was turning the fields into a deeper hue of green, peasants were busy here and there, little children played games on the roads. Body Picked up Yesterday at St. Cloud May be Crow Wing County Man

FOUND IN RIVER

Bruises on Body Believed to Have Been Inflicted by Unknown Assailant

The body of the unidentified man picked up yesterday at St. Cloud where it was partly washed ashore by the Mississippi river may be a missing resident of Crow Wing county.

The body which had been in the water several days is believed to have passed through Brainerd within the last few days.

Sheriff Claus Theorin has requested a complete description of the man and is endeavoring to find out if any resident of the county has mysteriously disappeared.

Bruises on the man's head and body have lead authorities to believe that the man was the victim of foul play, being assaulted and thrown in the river.

The man is said to be about 45 years of age.

LADIES' BAND IN NOVELTY PROGRAM

Concert to Be Given at New Park Theatre Monday, April 25th, is Varied One

NOVELTY ORCHESTRA IN DEBUT

Foremost Musical Treat of the Season To Contain Many Surprises

The Brainerd Ladies' Band, the now widely known musical organization which captured the hearts of their huge audiences at the State Fair last year as well as at numerous county fairs in this section of the state, will give its annual concert under the direction of Mrs. Winifred Cronk Ziebell at the New Park Theatre on Monday, April 25. Mrs. Ziebell, its very efficient and highly talented director, has been holding rehearsals twice weekly for some time, with the result that the concert this year will eclipse anything the band has attempted in the past.

The program has been arranged with the idea of pleasing the musical tastes of everyone, and will include vocal selections as well as instrumental.

The Kitchen Cabinet Kazoo Orchestra, a vaudeville act being presented by the ladies with their concert, is causing much discussion in regards to just what it consists of. It is being kept pretty much a dark secret but members of the organization give assurances that it will be both a novelty and something entirely new. It is known, however, that the audience will witness some of the weirdest musical instruments ever seen here or anywhere else in action. The band has always "put over" anything they attempted, and it is a certainty that this novelty entertainment feature of their concert will be a great success, as hard work and co-operation is the motto of this, the state's only ladies' band.

A beautiful souvenir program booklet of twenty pages has been compiled and is being printed, the color scheme being blue and gold, and these booklets will be passed out at the theatre the night of the concert. Included in this is a double page picture of the band, with its personnel, the evening's program and compliments and advertisements from the majority of the merchants and the county officers, who are again showing their appreciation of the honors and publicity which the organization has brought to the city of Brainerd.

Tickets are being offered by members of the band and are being taken so rapidly that it is certain that the house will be sold out long before the evening of the entertainment.

SEEK WHEREABOUTS OF DROWNED MAN

Body Picked up Yesterday at St. Cloud May be Crow Wing County Man

FOUND IN RIVER

Bruises on Body Believed to Have Been Inflicted by Unknown Assailant

The body of the unidentified man picked up yesterday at St. Cloud where it was partly washed ashore by the Mississippi river may be a missing resident of Crow Wing county.

The body which had been in the water several days is believed to have passed through Brainerd within the last few days.

Sheriff Claus Theorin has requested a complete description of the man and is endeavoring to find out if any resident of the county has mysteriously disappeared.

Bruises on the man's head and body have lead authorities to believe that the man was the victim of foul play, being assaulted and thrown in the river.

The man is said to be about 45 years of age.

LADIES' BAND IN NOVELTY PROGRAM

Concert to Be Given at New Park Theatre Monday, April 25th, is Varied One

NOVELTY ORCHESTRA IN DEBUT

Foremost Musical Treat of the Season To Contain Many Surprises

The Brainerd Ladies' Band, the now widely known musical organization which captured the hearts of their huge audiences at the State Fair last year as well as at numerous county fairs in this section of the state, will give its annual concert under the direction of Mrs. Winifred Cronk Ziebell at the New Park Theatre on Monday, April 25. Mrs. Ziebell, its very efficient and highly talented director, has been holding rehearsals twice weekly for some time, with the result that the concert this year will eclipse anything the band has attempted in the past.

The program has been arranged with the idea of pleasing the musical tastes of everyone, and will include vocal selections as well as instrumental.

The Kitchen Cabinet Kazoo Orchestra, a vaudeville act being presented by the ladies with their concert, is causing much discussion in regards to just what it consists of. It is being kept pretty much a dark secret but members of the organization give assurances that it will be both a novelty and something entirely new. It is known, however, that the audience will witness some of the weirdest musical instruments ever seen here or anywhere else in action. The band has always "put over" anything they attempted, and it is a certainty that this novelty entertainment feature of their concert will be a great success, as hard work and co-operation is the motto of this, the state's only ladies' band.

A beautiful souvenir program booklet of twenty pages has been compiled and is being printed, the color scheme being blue and gold, and these booklets will be passed out at the theatre the night of the concert. Included in this is a double page picture of the band, with its personnel, the evening's program and compliments and advertisements from the majority of the merchants and the county officers, who are again showing their appreciation of the honors and publicity which the organization has brought to the city of Brainerd.

Tickets are being offered by members of the band and are being taken so rapidly that it is certain that the house will be sold out long before the evening of the entertainment.

BODY OF KIDNAPED ENGINEER EN ROUTE TO MEXICO CITY

Mexico City, April 2.—(UP)—The body of Edgar Mark Wilkins, United States engineer kidnaped a week ago by Mexican bandits, was reported today to be en route to Mexico City from Guadalupe.

The U. S. embassy, however, had received no official confirmation of reports that Wilkins' body had been found near Guadalupe.

Fears had been expressed for several days that Wilkins might have been murdered by the bandits, who demanded heavy ransom.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for only 75 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.
